Statement of Methodology: 20/20 Insight, LLC surveyed 748 Iowa voters from January 8-12, 2011. The survey's margin of error is +/- 3.6% at a confidence level of 95%. Questions Q60, Q70 and Q160 were only asked of registered voters screened on prior questions and have higher MOE, which are noted in the results. 20/20 Insight, LLC conducts surveys using automated interactive voice response (IVR) technology. This is what is often referred to in the media as a "robo poll".

No live human operators spoke to respondents, who used their touch-tone phones to answer questions. Every respondent heard the exact same prompt for each question, except where noted a computer randomized the order in which they heard questions, ballot choices or names. Respondents had up to 10 seconds to answer each question – at that point (or if an invalid answer was offered) the question was re-read in its entirety. On average for this survey, respondents spent 9 minutes 58 seconds on the phone, and slightly more than 16% of those called who initially agreed to take the survey did not complete it.

The frequencies reported in this survey include the weighted results from ONLY the 748 respondents who answered every question through Q210.

Additional demographic weighting was applied to the survey using the 2008 Exit Poll for the Iowa General Election available on www.cnn.com. 67% of poll respondents had a final weight within +/- 0.45 of 1. A weighting of 1 would mean no weighting was applied. This weighting, and other factors such as refusal to be interviewed may introduce additional error that is more difficult to quantify. 20/20 Insight, LLC employed multiple callbacks over successive days and at different hours during the day and also attempted to convert those who initially decline to participate in order to reduce any respondent bias introduced by only interviewing the subset of the general population that answers a call on any random night.
